

Uniting First Aid and CPR

FAQ

Frequently Asked Questions

Are the First AID and CPR Courses Nationally Recognised?

All Uniting Registered Training Organisation (RTO) courses are nationally recognised – including First Aid and CPR. (Provider Number: 20956)

What is a Unique Student Identifier (USI) number? Do I need a USI to successfully complete the First Aid or CPR course?

A Unique Student Identifier (USI) number provides a centralised record of the formal education you have completed throughout your lifetime.

Successfully completing First Aid and CPR will provide you with a nationally recognised statement of attainment, as such, First Aid and CPR are considered “formal education” and therefore require a USI number.

Please Note: Without your USI a Statement of Attainment cannot be issued.

When will I receive my First Aid or CPR Statement of Attainment?

Within 4 weeks of successfully completing the course a Statement of Attainment (Certificate) will be issued.

Where does the information go when I enrol into the First Aid and CPR course?

As a RTO we are required to provide the Australian Skills Quality Authority (ASQA) students enrolment and competency completion data.

Furthermore, your results and course participation information will be provided to Uniting HR - this will be used to update your Uniting Training Record. Your supervisor will be notified of your course outcome. This data will be available to your supervisor or Uniting HR for no more than three years.

How often do I need to renew First Aid or CPR?

HLTAID001: Provide Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation is due for renewal annually.

HLTAID003: Provide First Aid is due for renewal every three years.

What should I wear to First Aid or CPR training?

We encourage staff to wear casual and comfortable clothing. Please remember that you will need to undertake activities such as kneeling, bending and some of you will be lucky enough to find yourself lying on the floor.

What should I bring to training?

Note pad and pen.

(A bottle of water may also be handy.)

How early do I need to arrive before the course?

15 minutes prior to course commencement is ideal.
